Over the past few years, George rapidly lost his vision and is now completely blind. In 2013, his wife Anne contacted VR Services. George received orientation and mobility training and worked with an itinerant rehabilitation teacher to safely navigate his environment without the use of his vision. George also learned new ways of performing various task at work, which included how to use assistive technology and specialized computer software like JAWS, and Dragon Naturally Speaking. With VR's assistance in obtaining these services and receiving training on how to effectively use this assistive technology, George has been able to continue to perform his judicial duties. He is a testament to the fact that VR can truly make a difference in a life.
